

STONED DRONE / STONERVERSE GAME CONCEPTS

Bourbon Nights

Two games. One street. Don't touch anyone.
Don't spill your drink.

"When I walk down Bourbon St I always try not to touch people." — JayNdaboX

Bourbon Walk is that walk, turned into a game. Balcony Toss is the view from above: the beads raining down, the cups held high, the drinks knocked loose. Same street, same night — your chaos is someone else's obstacle.

Build brief

Two arcade games set on one Friday night on Bourbon Street, New Orleans — designed as a shared world where each game's chaos becomes the other game's obstacles.

Recommended order: prototype Bourbon Walk's dodge feel first — if threading the crowd isn't fun in greybox, nothing else matters. Then Balcony Toss's throw feel. The shared-world hooks come last; each game must stand alone first.

01

Bourbon Walk — the run

One unbroken run from Canal to Esplanade on a Friday night. You do not touch people. Ever.

The 60-second loop — one block

Move
weave the crowd

Read
spot what's ahead

Dodge
slip the gaps

Chain
near-miss streaks

Block structure

- ~60 seconds per block, ~13 blocks per run.
- Each block raises Buzz: denser, drunker, louder.
- Every 3rd block: the second line crosses.

Controls

- Move: stick / tilt / WASD.
- Sip: one button — 3 seconds of slow-mo, costs drink.
- That's it. Two inputs.

Core rule: the fun is threading gaps, not twitch reflexes. Gaps should read clearly two seconds before you reach them — fair, then fast.

Meters & ranks

Aura — health

3 hits. Brush a shoulder = lose 1. Full bump = lose 2. Lose it all and YOU GOT HUGGED — game over.

Cool — multiplier

Near-misses raise it. Any touch wipes it to zero. Cool is where the score lives.

Buzz — difficulty

Rises block by block as the night goes on: denser, drunker, louder crowd. You can't lower it — only outrun it.

Cup — your drink

You start every run holding a full cup. Hard cuts, bumps, and slides slosh it. Empty cup = no more slow-mo sips.

Ranks — what the night calls you

RANK	HOW
SAINT	Zero touches and a full cup at Esplanade. The perfect night.
GHOST	Zero touches. Nobody knew you were there.
STEADY HANDS	Bonus — finish any run with drink left in the cup.
WALKER	Finished the run. Touched some people. It happens.
HUGGED	Lost all Aura. Game over screen: "YOU GOT HUGGED."

Scoring: distance + near-miss chains × Cool multiplier. GHOST and SAINT runs unlock fancier cups.

Hazards

Drifters

Drunk tourists with a homing wobble — they veer into you. Read the lean, not the feet.

Performer rings

Street acts block the sidewalk and shrink your gaps. The crowd watching is part of the wall.

Spill zones

Step in one and you slide forward uncontrolled — straight into whoever's ahead. (Balcony Toss players make these.)

Balcony bait

People leaning out for beads, arms out. Every arm is a grab hitbox.

Bead throws

Balconies hurl beads down with telegraphed landing zones, and catchers surge toward them in a scrambling cluster. Risk/reward: catch beads mid-air for the shield — get clipped and lose Aura. Same beads, different luck.

The second line — mini-boss, every 3 blocks. A parade crosses your route perpendicular, full street width. You can't go around it — time the gap between the band and the followers, or burn the umbrella.

Cups & pickups

Pick your cup before each run. Two stats: capacity (slow-mo sips it holds) vs stability (how much it sloshes on hard cuts).

CUP	CAPACITY	STABILITY	NOTES
Go-cup	Medium	Medium	The classic. Balanced. Unlocked from the start.
Styrofoam	Low (2 sips)	High	Light and steady, barely sloshes on turns.
Hurricane glass	High	Low	The tourist special. Sloshes if you breathe wrong.
Can	1 sip	Very high	Tiny, nearly spill-proof. For purists.
Fishbowl	Very high	Very low	Novelty monster. Spills on every hard cut. Chaos pick.

Pickups on the street

Beads

Catch mid-air: shield, one free touch.

Sip

3 seconds of slow-mo. Costs drink from your cup.

Umbrella

Second-line umbrella: clears a path through one crowd wave — or one parade.

Unlocks: fancier cups unlock with GHOST and SAINT runs. The fishbowl is earned, not given.

05

Balcony Toss — the balcony

You're on a Bourbon Street balcony, bag of beads, crowd below holding their cups up. Land beads in cups. Or knock the cups clean out of their hands.

The throw loop

Pick

choose a target

Aim

drag: angle + power

Lead

they're moving

Watch

arc + wind

Lob

Gentle arc. For landings — the Saint's throw.

Peg

Fast and flat. For knockouts — the Menace's throw.

Targets & scoring

Same cups as Bourbon Walk — but here they're difficulty tiers.

TARGET CUP	DIFFICULTY	POINTS
Fishbowl	Easy — huge target	Low
Hurricane glass	Easy — wide mouth	Low
Go-cup	Standard	Standard
Styrofoam	Hard — small	High
Can	Sniper — tiny opening	Massive

Streaks & style

- Landing = cup's point value × streak multiplier.
- BEADSTORM — 10 straight landings. The balcony goes feral.
- RATTLED IN — rim bounce that drops in anyway. Double points.
- FUMBLE! — peg the cup or the hand and it teeters...
- DROP! — ...and falls. Big chaos points, splash zone, one very angry partier.

Design note: landings want soft lobs; drops want hard pegs. The two throws are two playstyles, not two buttons doing the same job.

Saint vs Menace

Saint

Lob beads gently into cups. Cheers, streaks, BEADSTORM. The crowd loves you. Lower ceiling, longer runs.

cheers

streaks

beadstorm

Menace

Peg cups and hands. FUMBLES and DROPS, chaos points, splash zones. The crowd hates you. Higher ceiling, shorter fuse.

fumble

drop chaos

The crowd has a memory

Crowd anger

A shared meter. Face hits fill it 1× — knocked-over drinks fill it 2×. Fill it and the crowd starts throwing beads back at YOU. Menace runs are a race against the mob.

Wind gusts

Telegraphed. Push your arc sideways. Read the napkins.

Cup switchers

Some partiers swap cups mid-aim to bait you. Trust nothing.

One street, two games

Same street, same Friday night. Each game's chaos becomes the other game's obstacles.

Balcony Toss
beads thrown

Bourbon Walk
bead-throw hazard

Balcony Toss
drinks dropped

Bourbon Walk
spill zones

The loop that sells it: a Balcony Toss Menace knocks a drink loose → it becomes a spill zone in someone's Bourbon Walk run → they slide, spill their own cup, and lose their slow-mo. One player's chaos is another player's obstacle, and neither of them planned it.

Later — the mirror world

- Endymia reskin — the Cyber-Gothic Bayou Quarter. Same street, mirrored.
- AR mode — real Bourbon Street through My FuX.U: dodge real crowds, throw at real cups. The phone is the lens.

Seven nights, one boss

Levels are days of the week. The street gets drunker every night — and the weekend is the boss.

NIGHT	THE STREET	NEW PRESSURE
Monday — Industry Night	Thin crowd, slow.	Tutorial night. Learn the weave.
Tuesday — Taco Tuesday	Crowd picks up.	First drifters.
Wednesday — Hump Day	Mid pace.	Performer rings debut.
Thursday — Thirsty Thursday	College crowd.	Spill zones debut, Buzz climbs.
Friday — The Gauntlet	The full run.	Everything on. Parades every 3 blocks.
Saturday — Prime Time	Densest regular crowd.	Bead throws constant, parades every 2 blocks.
Sunday — Saints Day	Slower, hungover.	Unpredictable — drunks and church crowd mix.

END BOSS: MARDI GRAS WEEKEND. The street becomes one continuous parade — crossings back-to-back, bead storms nonstop, floats as moving walls, everything maxed. Three phases: Friday (the approach), Saturday (the wall), Sunday (the encore). A SAINT rank on Mardi Gras weekend is the ultimate bragging right.

Unlocks: finish a night to unlock the next. Ranks are tracked per night, and each night keeps its own leaderboard.

Build order

Pass 1 — Bourbon Walk greybox

1. Block the street. One straight run, crowd as capsules, no art.
2. Tune the dodge. Gaps must read two seconds out. Fair, then fast.
3. Add the four meters. Aura, Cool, Buzz, Cup — all visible, all felt.
4. Add the second line. The perpendicular crossing is the first boss — it has to feel like an event.

Pass 2 — Balcony Toss prototype

1. Nail the throw. Drag-aim with a visible arc preview; wind readable.
2. Two throws, two playstyles. Lob for Saints, peg for Menaces.
3. Crowd anger. The mob throwing back is the fail state with personality.

Pass 3 — shared world

1. Bead throws and spill zones spawn from the same event feed.
2. Playtest the loop: does a Menace's chaos show up in a Walker's run?

- OK Dodge feel is fun in greybox before any art.
- OK Two inputs for Bourbon Walk — never more.
- OK Every hazard telegraphs before it punishes.
- OK The second line feels like an event, not a wall.
- OK SAINT rank is achievable but rare.

Don't touch anyone. Don't spill your drink.
